GUYANA CHRISTIAN UNIVERSITY GRADUATES FIRST CLASS OF TEN GOSPEL PREACHERS

Jerry O. Davidson, missionary to the Amerindian villages in Guyana, South America since 1999, reports that the school's first graduation, held on July 3, 2009 was a success. Ten Amerindians received diplomas for their two-years of concentrated Bible study. All of the graduates will be preaching in the Amerindian villages, some returning to their own villages.

Guyana Christian University is located in Lethem in the southern Region Nine of Guyana, South America, 300 miles south of Georgetown, the capital city. The school was established September 2007.

Thomas George, a former Amerindian medic is the director of the school, which is under the oversight of the Eastern Shore Church of Christ, Daphne, Alabama. Their minister, Bryant Evans, serves at the Academic Dean of GCU, and works tirelessly recruiting teachers to go down and teach a session in the school. Tom Holland of Nashville, Tennessee is the President of GCU, and Gene Johnson of Decatur, Alabama serves as Vice-president. John Langham of Daphne, Alabama is the school's Treasurer.

Already ten Amerindian men are enrolled to study in the next two-year session which begins September 2009.
